The general legal framework for the prohibition of enforced disappearances

9. Albania is committed to the constant improvement of standards for the protection and compliance with the human rights and fundamental freedoms. In this context, priority is focused on the improvement of domestic legislation in line with international obligations. The Constitution of the Republic of Albania, ratified international agreements which are part of the domestic legal system, laws, normative acts of the Council of Ministers and subsidiary acts guarantee the implementation in practice of human rights. The Albanian legislation, which is constantly being improved and supplemented, constitutes a guarantee for the prevention of enforced disappearances, also reflecting the spirit of the Convention.

International instruments on enforced disappearances

10. The Republic of Albania is party to all international human rights conventions within the UN as well as a number of other international instruments, demonstrating its commitment to the fulfilment of international obligations in the field of human rights. The international instruments in which the RoA is a party to, which also deal with specific provisions that directly or indirectly provide for the prevention of enforced disappearances and are related to criminal legislation:

- The European Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms (ratified by law No. 8137, dated 31.07.1996), specifically the provisions (the right to life, prohibition of torture, the right to freedom and security); Its Additional Protocols (Protocols 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 11, 12, 13, 14). Concerning the death penalty, Law No. 9639 dated 09.11.2006 “On the ratification of Protocol No. 13 to the European Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms for the Abolition of the Death Penalty in All Conditions” was adopted. (it should be removed since the following was observed;
- International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights:
 - Optional Protocol to the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights (adhered to by law No. 9725, dated 07.05.2007);
 - The Second Optional Protocol to the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, aiming at the abolition of the death penalty (Adhered to by Law No. 9726, dated 07.05.2007);
- Convention against Torture and Other Cruel, Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment (Adhered to by law No. 7727, dated 30.06.1993):
 - Optional Protocol to the Convention Against Torture OPCAT (ratified by law No. 9094, dated 03.07.2003), on the establishment of National Mechanisms for the Prevention of Torture;
 - European Convention for the Prevention of Torture, Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment (adhered to by Law No. 8135, dated 31.7.1996);
 - Rome Statute on the International Criminal Court (ratified by law No. 8984, dated 23.12.2002);
 - The European Convention on Extradition and the two additional protocols (ratified by Law No. 8322, dated 04.04.1998);
 - Council of Europe Convention “On the Transfer of Proceedings in Criminal Matters” (ratified by Law No. 8497, dated 10.6.1999);
 - Council of Europe Convention “On Mutual Legal Assistance in Criminal Matters” (ratified by law No. 8498, dated 10.6.1999);

- Council of Europe Convention “On the Transfer of Sentenced Persons” (ratified by law No. 8499, 10.6.1999);
- Geneva Convention of 1949 and its Additional Protocols;
- Albanian authorities have established effective cooperation with the European Committee for the Prevention of Torture (CPT). The CPT has conducted 10 monitoring visits in Albania.⁹

The status of the Convention within the domestic legislation

11. In the RoA, international law is entitled to a privileged position vis-à-vis domestic law and in this context, the Convention prevails over domestic law. The Constitution defines the obligation of the Albanian state to enforce international law. Pursuant to Article 122 of the Constitution, any ratified international agreement constitutes part of the internal legal system after it is published in the Official Journal. Article 122 of the Constitution provides that that international law directly applicable, except when it is not self-executing, and its application requires the adoption of a law. An international agreement ratified by law has priority over the laws of the country that are incompatible with it. Moreover, the norms issued by an international organization have priority, in case of conflict, over the law of the country when the direct application of the norms issued by the organization is expressly contemplated in the agreement ratified by the Republic of Albania for participation therein.

12. Based on the general rules and principles of the application of legal norms, it can be concluded that entities may apply and request the application only of those articles of the Convention, the implementation of which is guaranteed by the current legislation and for which there is no need to establish internal mechanisms. Taking into account the obligations arising from this Convention, in cases where a specific article of the Convention requires the adoption of domestic legal provisions or the establishment of internal mechanisms (in cases where these are missing or are not appropriate) for the application of the norms/provisions of the Convention, the inclusion in the Criminal Code of the offence of “enforced disappearance” is noted, as well as other legal provisions. Pursuant to Article 122 of the Constitution, it is worth emphasising that this Convention is part of its legislation, however on the other hand, this Convention is not applicable to its provisions as a whole. For the implementation of its provisions under Article 122, it is necessary to identify the provisions that may be applied in domestic law, in accordance with the provisions of the Convention and the provisions to be applied in practice through taking all the specific measures. From a general overview of the actual domestic legislation, it can be concluded that some of the provisions of the Convention directly or indirectly apply to the domestic law.

Institutional framework (judicial authorities, institutions, national mechanisms) on protection and promotion of human rights

13. The Constitution provides for sanctions on the principle of separation and balancing of legislative, executive and judicial powers. Judicial power is exercised by the High Court, the Appeal Courts and the courts of first instance, established by law. The Constitutional Court guarantees compliance with the Constitution and makes its final interpretation. It is also an important institution for the protection of human rights as it carries out the final judgement of individuals’ claims of violation of constitutional rights for a regular legal process, after having exhausted all legal remedies for their protection.

14. In order to guarantee the protection of human rights and implementation of the legislation, a full legal framework on the organization and functioning of the judicial power has been adopted: Courts of the District Courts, Courts of Appeal, Supreme Court, Constitutional Court, First Instance Court for Serious Crimes, Military Courts, Administrative Court. Judicial authorities, which, according to their jurisdiction, also address matters relating to the content of the Convention are: The Constitutional Court, the Supreme Court, the District Courts, including the First Instance Court for Serious Crimes. The scope of work of the First Instance Court for Serious Crimes includes criminal offences provided for under the Criminal Code provisions, including the offence of enforced disappearance.

15. The Criminal Procedure Code provides that the Court is the body responsible for rendering justice. Regarding “criminal courts”, it is provided that criminal justice is addressed by: First Instance Criminal Courts; Appeal Courts; Supreme Court. The First Instance Court for Serious Crimes is operational since 2004, having as the scope of its activity the fight against serious crimes and organized crime, as well as the qualitative and effective judgement of these criminal offences. The territorial jurisdiction of this Court includes the entire territory of the Republic of Albania and the scope of its work includes the offences provided for in the Criminal Code, also including cases when these crimes are committed by entities under the jurisdiction of the Military Court. The Military Court is competent for the adjudication of soldiers, prisoners of war and other persons for criminal offences provided for under the Military Criminal Code, other legal provisions, except those pertaining to the jurisdiction of the Court for Serious Crimes and the Supreme Court.

16. The institution of the Prosecution, based on the Constitution, exercises criminal prosecution and represents the charge in trial on behalf of the state. Law No. 8737, dated 12.02.2001 “On the Organization and Functioning of the Prosecution in the Republic of Albania” (as amended) stipulates that: “The Prosecution exercises criminal prosecution and represents the charge in trial on behalf of the state, takes measures and supervises the execution of criminal decisions, as well as other duties provided by law. Prosecutors exercise their duty in accordance with the Constitution, laws and their competences, in full compliance with the principles of fair, equal and regular legal process, protection of human rights and freedoms. The Prosecution is organized and operates under the lead of the General Prosecutor as a centralized structure, including the General Prosecutor’s Office, the Prosecution Council and the Prosecution Offices within the Judicial System.”

17. The mission of the State Police is to maintain the order, public safety and to guarantee law enforcement in accordance with the Constitution, international acts, in compliance with human rights and freedoms. The fulfilment of the State Police mission is related to the compliance with human rights and freedoms, in particular of persons deprived of their freedom, escorted persons, arrested persons and detainees in the police premises. The activity of the State Police is governed by the law and compliance with human rights and fundamental freedoms. The duties of the State Police are as follows: (a) the protection of people’s lives, security and personal property; (b) maintaining of public order and security; (c) prevention, detection, investigation, in accordance with criminal law, criminal procedural law, criminal offences, perpetrators; (d) undertaking awareness raising campaigns and information campaigns aimed at preventing the commission of criminal offences, offences, increasing partnership with the public; (e) performing duties in accordance with the law.

18. The People’s Advocate is a constitutional, independent institution which exercises its activity for the protection of the rights, freedoms, legitimate interests of individuals that may be affected by illegal and irregular acts/omissions of the public administration bodies and the third parties acting on its account. In the context of the Convention against Torture and its Optional Protocol, this institution exercises the powers of the National Mechanism for the Prevention of Torture and other Cruel, Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment (NMPT), guarantees in the exercise of its activity and forms of surveillance.¹⁰ The Law “On the Rights and Treatment of detainees and pre-detainees” provides that the NMPT, which supervises the implementation of the law on the protection of human rights, acts as a separate structure under the authority of the People’s Advocate. It introduces recommendations to relevant bodies aiming to improve the conditions and treatment of prisoners. The amendments to the Law “On the People’s Advocate” (Law No. 155/14) provide for the establishment of the NMPT, as a separate session with the Office of the People’s Advocate. The People’s Advocate exercises the functions of the NMPT in accordance with the Constitution and international acts ratified by the domestic law of the Republic of Albania.

19. An important institution for the protection of human rights is the institution of the Commissioner for the Protection against Discrimination (CPD), which is established and operates in compliance with Law no.10221, dated 4.2.2010 “On Protection against Discrimination”. The law provides for the rights of each person to: a) equality before the law, equal protection by law; b) equality of chances, opportunities to exercise and be entitled to rights and freedoms, participation in public life; c) effective protection against discrimination, any form of conduct that incites discrimination.¹¹

Recommendation II. Determination and criminalization of enforced disappearance (Articles 1-7)

20. With regards to the guarantee of human rights and cases of their restriction, the Constitution of the Republic of Albania provides that:

- Article 15 – provides that human rights and freedoms are indivisible, inalienable, and inviolable and stand at the base of the entire juridical order. As a constitutional obligation, all institutions, organs of public power, in fulfilment of their duties, shall respect the fundamental rights and freedoms, as well as contribute to their realization;
- Article 17 – stipulates that limitations of the rights and freedoms provided for in this Constitution may be established only by law, in the public interest or for the protection of the rights of others. These limitations may not infringe the essence of the rights and freedoms and in no case may exceed the limitations provided for in the European Convention on Human Rights;
- Article 25 – provides that no one may be subjected to torture, cruel, inhuman or degrading punishment or treatment;
- Article 27 – provides that no one’s liberty may be taken away except in the cases and according to the procedures provided by law.

21. The Constitution of the Republic of Albania regarding extraordinary measures to be imposed due to the state of war, state of emergency or state of natural disaster shall last for as long as these conditions persist. The principles of the activity of public bodies and the extent of the restriction of human rights and freedoms during the period of existence of situations requiring extraordinary measures and the manner of compensation as a result of these restrictions are defined by law. Acts that are undertaken as a result of the extraordinary measures taken, must be proportionate to the degree of risk and restore of the conditions for normal functioning of the state as soon as possible. The Constitution sets out the provisions on the protection of life, equality before the law and non-discrimination and non-limitation of fundamental rights and freedoms, prohibition of torture, punishment or other cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment, political rights, economic and social rights during the extraordinary state of war.

22. Based on the Albanian legislation, there is no law on the state of war or internal political instability aiming to govern or justify the violation of the rights of persons who are detained or arrested, thus justifying or authorizing the enforced disappearance, arrest, imprisonment, abduction or any form of deprivation of freedom, torture, inhuman or degrading treatment. In these cases, the same provisions as the legislation in force shall apply. Law No. 108/2015 “On the State Police”, paragraph 3 of Article 4 provides that the state police status shall not change even in state of war, state of emergency or natural disaster. According to this law, one of the basic principles under which the activity of the state police is governed is compliance with human rights and fundamental freedoms. The law provides for measures for maintaining public order and security.

23. Regarding the provision of the crime of enforced disappearance as a crime against humanity, in accordance with the obligations of Article 5 under the Convention, the Criminal Code provides for “enforced disappearance” as a crime against humanity with the corresponding sanctions and the widespread and systematic exercise of enforced disappearance as a crime against humanity, therefore Article 74 of the Criminal Code specifically provides that:

Murder, enforced disappearance, extermination, enslaving, internment and expulsion and any other kind of human torture or violence committed according to a concrete premeditated plan or systematically, against a group of the civil population for political, ideological, racial, ethnical and religious motives, shall be punishable to not less than fifteen years of or life imprisonment.

24. Concerning criminal offences similar to the provisions of Article 3 of the Convention, the national criminal legislation is the same as the legislation mentioned in the state report, therefore there are no changes to the previously mentioned provisions. With regard to paragraph 53 of the report, it is clarified that domestic criminal law provides for some offences of similar elements to mandatory disappearance, but do not have the second element of this offence, namely that conduct is carried out by the state agent or by persons or groups of persons acting with the authorization, support or acknowledgement of the state. As already mentioned, there are no cases related to these criminal offences.

25. Concerning the compliance of our legislation with Article 6 of the Convention regarding the Criminal Liability regime, the Criminal Code provides for a number of offences when committed by a person performing a state function. Specifically, the Criminal Code provides for the criminal responsibility under Article 109/c regarding the crime of enforced disappearance by the superior who:

(a) Is aware that the dependent under his authority and effective control are or are about to commit the enforced disappearance, or who does not take into account data and information which clearly point to this fact;

(b) Exercises his effective responsibility and control over the activities to which the enforced disappearance is linked with; or

(c) Does not take all the necessary and reasonable measures under his/her competence to prevent or punish the person who issues the authorisation, support, and approval of the enforced disappearance or to send the case to the competent bodies of criminal prosecution, shall be punished by three to seven years of imprisonment.

26. Based on the foregoing, the domestic legislation sets out the principles of criminal obligations in accordance with the applicable international law.

27. Moreover, as mentioned in paragraph 61 of the state report, the Criminal Code provides for the criminalization of different types of offences and criminal offences and sanctions, committed by officials assigned in state function or in public service, providing that:

Article 21

Exercising a right or fulfilling the duty

No one shall be held criminally liable while acting to exercise rights or fulfil duties determined by law or an order issued by a competent authority, unless the order is obviously unlawful.

Where the criminal offence was committed as a consequence of an unlawful order, then the person issuing the order shall be held liable.

Article 250

Committing arbitrary actions

Commitment of arbitrary actions or arbitrary order-giving, by an official performing a state or public service function while exercising his duty, which affect the freedom of citizens, is punishable by a fine or imprisonment of up to seven years.

Article 251

Failure to take measures to sever illegality

Failure of a person in charge of a state or public service function to take measures, who becomes aware of the illegality due to the function or service, or failure to request a competent person to sever illegality resulting from an arbitrary action that has affected the freedom of citizens, is punishable by a fine or up to three years of imprisonment.

28. Regarding the information required if our legislation provides as an aggravating circumstance when the offence is committed by state officials, we can say that this provision is included in our legislation since one of the aggravating circumstances under the Criminal Code is when the offence is committed due to abusive actions in exercising public functions or religious services.

29. Regarding the information required for cases of co-operation or participation to commit the enforced disappearance and responsibility of each collaborator, the Criminal Code provides that:

Article 25

Meaning of complicity

Complicity shall be the commission of the criminal offence by two or more persons in agreement with each other.

Article 26

Accomplices

The accomplices in committing a criminal offence shall be: the organizers, executors, instigators, and helpers. Organizers are those persons who organize and manage the activity to commit the criminal offence. Executors are those persons who carry out direct actions to carry out the criminal offence. Instigators are those persons who instigate the other accomplices to commit a criminal offence. Helpers are those persons who, through advice, instructions, provision of means, abolition of obstacles, promises to hide the accomplices, traces or proceeds stemming from the criminal offence, help to carry it out.

Article 27

Liability of accomplices

Organizers, instigators, and helpers shall be liable same as the executors for the criminal offence committed by them.

In determining the sentence for the collaborators, the court should consider the extent of participation and the role assumed in committing the criminal offence.

30. Regarding the information required when a dependant can legally oppose an order to carry out enforced disappearance and the legal recourse available to a dependant, the legal framework provides that: One of the principles of the Code of Administrative Procedures is the principle of legality. According to this principle, public bodies exercise their activity in compliance with the Constitution of the Republic of Albania, the ratified international agreements and the legislation applicable in the Republic of Albania within the limits of competence and in accordance with the purpose for which such competences are conferred. The lawful rights or interests of a party cannot be jeopardised by an administrative action, except when provided by law and in compliance with a regular legal process.

31. Law No. 108/2015 “On State Police” provides as follows:

Article 86

Obligation to comply with the order

1. The police officer is obliged to enforce all legitimate orders issued by a senior officer in office or rank.

2. The police officer, if there is any reason to suspect that the order issued is illegal, immediately informs the superior and, where applicable, requests in writing that the order be given in writing. In any case, when there is a verbal or written request for the issuance of a written order, the superior is obliged to proceed upon written request.

3. In cases where failure to execute the order until its written issuance, according to point 2 of this article, endangers the life of another person, the police officer must execute the order.

4. When a police officer, even upon execution of the procedures set out in this Article, continues to have grounds for suspecting that the order is illegal, he/she shall act as following:

(a) Rejects the order, except for the cases provided for in paragraph 3 of this Article;

(b) Immediately informs the police officer, who directly exercises in a higher function than the superior who has issued the order, as well as the measures taken by him for the execution of this article.

5. The procedures for issuing, transmitting and administering the order are set out in the Police Regulation.

32. Law No. 10032, dated 11.12.2008 "On Prison Police" as amended, also provides that:

Article 9

Hierarchical and Functional Reports

1. Prison Police officers are required to enforce the orders given by the superiors, in accordance with the functional scale and in equal positions, according to the rank hierarchy. Orders should be issued in accordance with the functional duty and in compliance with the law and the dignity of the person to whom they are addressed.

2. In the absence of a direct superior, in case of an emergency and when there is no possibility of communicating with senior officers, the higher-ranking official shall be entitled to issue order for equal or lower rank officials.

Article 10

Way order execution

1. The Prison Police official must enforce all orders issued to him by his superiors, unless the order is in violation with the law, in any case, based on law and evidence.

2. If the Prison Police officer considers a verbal order as illegal, he must immediately inform the superior and request that the order be given in writing.

3. In cases when from the communication of the order, up to its issuance in writing, according to point 2 of this article, the life of another person is endangered, the Prison Police officer shall execute the order.

4. If the Prison Police officer, even after the implementation of the procedures under points 2 and 3 of this Article, continues to have grounds to suspect that the order is unlawful, he shall reject the order and immediately inform the superior of the officer who has issued the order, as well as the measures taken by him.

5. In any case, for any order issued, the officer who issued the order and the officer who executed the order shall be responsible, in case the latter failed to comply with the provisions of this article. These cases constitute a cause for the initiation of disciplinary proceedings against them.

33. Concerning Article 1, we hereby clarify that the Albanian legislation provides for enforced disappearance as a criminal offence under the Criminal Code, namely Articles 74 and 109(c) of the Criminal Code, in accordance with the definition provided for in the 1992 Declaration on the Protection of All Persons from the Enforced Disappearance, which condemns it by appropriate penalties that take into account the extreme severity of such offence. Regarding the statutory limitations of criminal prosecution in Albania, according to the provisions of the general part of the Albanian Criminal Code, Chapter VIII provides for the extinction of prosecution, punishment and non-execution. Based on the amendments to the legal package, in the framework of the Justice Reform, the obligations of Article 8 of the Convention are reflected in Article 66 of the Criminal Code, regarding the measures that States Parties must take to enforce a regime of provision of enforced disappearance so that the provision of criminal prosecution be long-term and proportional to the extreme danger of this crime. Thus, Article 66 of the Criminal Code, following the above amendments, doubled the statutory terms for all criminal offences, especially the most serious ones, including Article 109/c. Also, Article 67 of the Criminal Code regulates the fact that the prosecution of war crimes and those against humanity is not prescribed, as reflected in the special section of this code, Chapter I, crimes against humanity.

34. Concerning Article 1 of the Convention, regarding the guarantee of the right not to be subject to enforced disappearance during a state of war, threat of war, etc., in Law No. 108/2014 “On the State Police”, the responsibilities of the State Police are defined. As following:

- (a) The protection of people’s lives, security and personal property;
- (b) Prevention, detection, investigation, in accordance with criminal law, criminal procedural law, criminal offences, perpetrators.

35. Such a thing is defined as: “The status of the Police does not change even in the state of war, state of emergency or natural disaster..” It is worth mentioning the turbulent/aggravated period of public security order of 1997, where State Police structures, despite the difficult situation they faced, took all necessary measures to fulfil the mission and legal responsibilities for the protection of life/health, property of the person, etc.

36. As regards Article 2 of the Convention, in Law No. 144/2013 “On some amendments and additions to Law No. 7895, dated 27.01.1995 “Criminal Code of the Republic of Albania”, as amended, article 109/c was added to article 109/b of the Criminal Code, which defines “Enforced disappearance ”as a separate criminal offence. The definition of this criminal offence was drafted in full compliance with the definition of article No. 2 of the Convention in question, subject to all of its elements.

37. With regard to Article 4 of the Convention, the domestic criminal law of our country has integrated the prosecution and the fighting of “Enforced disappearance”, defining it as a criminal offence other than torture, abolition of freedom, and other similar offences. Article 109/c of the Criminal Code of the Republic of Albania (with the additions and amendments of 2013), enforced disappearance is defined as follows:

Enforced disappearance through arrest, detention, abduction or any other form of deprivation of liberty of the person by public officials or persons acting upon their authorisation, support or approval, followed by the non-acceptance of the deprivation of liberty or by concealment of the fate or whereabouts of the person, by denying the assistance and necessary protection in compliance with the law, shall constitute criminal offence and it shall be punishable by imprisonment from seven to fifteen years. “When such offence is committed against children, pregnant women, or persons who because of different reasons cannot protect themselves, or when such offence causes serious physical suffering, it is committed in complicity, against several persons or more than once, it shall be punishable by imprisonment from ten to twenty years. When such offence causes the death of a person it shall be punishable by imprisonment of not less than thirty years or with life imprisonment.

38. With regard to Article 7 of the Convention, the provision of Article 109/c of the Criminal Code also lays down the sanctions for the persons subject to the commission of the “Enforced Disappearance” offence, in accordance with international standards, the danger imposed and the consequences arising from this criminal offence. This provision specifies punishments/sanctions for each relevant paragraph, sanctioning at least five years of imprisonment and the maximum “life imprisonment”. As far as the above, be informed that since 2015, no case of “Enforced disappearance” has been registered in the territory of the Republic of Albania.

Recommendation III. Judicial Procedure and Cooperation in Criminal Matters (Articles 8-15)

39. For the enforcement of the statute of limitation of enforced disappearance for the necessary measures taken by the state for the long-term period of statutory limitation of the criminal prosecution and the proportion to the extreme danger of this crime, pursuant to Article 66 of the Criminal Code, the statutory limitation is calculated from the moment of the commission of the offence (in this case, the time of enforced disappearance) until the person is kept as defendant. Whereas as far as criminal prosecution is concerned, article 67 of the Criminal Code provides for the non-predication of criminal offences of war crimes and those against humanity, categories of offences which include enforced disappearance:

Article 67

Non-applicability of statute of limitations to criminal prosecution

Not subject to the statute of limitation shall be the war crimes and crimes against humanity.

Concerning the implementation of Article 109/c prior to the application of such provision, Articles 2 and 3 of the general principles of criminal law provide for the retroactive effect of the law and no penalty without a law.

Article 2

No penalty without a law

No one shall be criminally punished for an offence, which is not already explicitly provided for by law as a crime or a criminal contravention.

No one shall be sentenced to a type and extent of penalty that is not provided for by law.

Article 3

Operation of the criminal law in time

No one shall be sentenced for an offence, which, according to the law at the time it was committed, did not constitute a criminal offence.

A new law not incriminating an offence has retroactive effect. If the person has been sentenced, the enforcement of the sentence shall not commence and, if it has commenced, it shall cease. If the law in force at the time when the criminal offence was committed, and the subsequent law are different, the law, the provisions of which are more favourable to the person having committed the criminal offence, shall apply.

40. Regarding the reporting and compliance of our legislation with the Convention on the necessary measures to establish its competence for the purpose of recognizing a crime of enforced disappearance, Article 6 of the Criminal Code provides that the offences committed by Albanian citizens within the territory of the Republic of Albania are subject to the criminal law of the Republic of Albania. Also, the criminal law of the Republic of Albania is also applicable to an Albanian citizen who commits a crime in the territory of another state, when the crime is simultaneously punishable and provided that no final decision is issued by a foreign court. In the meaning of this article, other persons also having other citizenship other than the Albanian one, will be considered as Albanian citizens. This provision indicates that the Convention is applicable due to the fact that enforced disappearance is foreseen as a criminal offence under the Criminal Code and this code establishes the jurisdiction for the trial of a person charged with the offence of enforced disappearance, regardless of who has committed the offence or in which territory it has been committed. According to Article 5 of the Criminal Code, the Territory of the Republic of Albania, in terms of criminal law, includes the territorial area, the territorial and inland waters and the sea, the air space extending over the land and the territorial and inland sea waters, and any other territory where the sovereignty of the Albanian state is extended, such as headquarters of Albanian diplomatic and consular missions, ships flying the flag of the Republic of Albania, military navy ships, military or civil aviation wherever they are. Article 7 of the Criminal Code provides that the foreign citizen, committing a criminal offence within the territory of the Republic of Albania, shall be held liable under the criminal law of the Republic of Albania. The criminal law of the Republic of Albania shall also be applicable to a foreign citizen committing one of the following crimes against the interests of the Albanian State or citizen outside the territory of the Republic of Albania: a) crimes against humanity. The application of universal jurisdiction is also provided for in the Criminal Code, where pursuant to article 7/a: “the criminal law of the Republic of Albania shall also be applicable to a foreign citizen committing one of the following crimes against the interests of the Albanian State or citizen outside the territory of the Republic of Albania: (a) crimes against humanity; (b) war crimes; (c) genocide; (d) terrorist offences; (e) torture; (f) financing of terrorism. Also, the Criminal Code of the Republic of Albania is applicable to a foreign citizen who, outside the territory of the Republic of Albania, commits any of the offences for which special laws or international agreements, where the Republic of Albania is a party to, determine the applicability of Albanian criminal legislation.”

41. Article 8 of the Criminal Code provides that in connection with a stateless person committing a criminal offence within the territory of the Republic of Albania or a crime abroad, the provisions of Articles 7 and 7/a of this Code shall apply.

42. Article 9 of the Criminal Code provides that the provisions of this Code shall also apply to criminal offences committed against internationally protected persons. An internationally protected person shall, unless international agreements ratified by the Albanian state provide for otherwise, include:

(a) The head of a state, including a member of the collegial body performing the functions of the head of state, under the constitution of that state, the head of the government or the minister for foreign affairs, where the latter are in another state, and the family members accompanying them;

(b) A representative or official of a state, or an official or agent of an international organisation having an intergovernmental character, who, at the time and venue of the commission of the offence against him, his office, private residence or means of transport, enjoys, in accordance with the international law, special protection against any assault on his person, freedom and dignity, as well as on the members of his family.

43. Considering that under the Criminal Code enforced disappearance is considered as a criminal offence, in the case of a charge for such a criminal offence, no immunity is taken into account.

44. Pursuant to domestic law, military authorities shall be in charge for the investigation and prosecution of persons charged with enforced disappearance and for defining which jurisdiction is competent to judge the crime of enforced disappearance when carried out by the military under the Criminal Procedure Code. In compliance with the domestic law, the military authority shall not have the competency to investigate and prosecute persons charged with enforced disappearance, however, the prosecutor is entitled to investigate and adjudicate for these crimes. He exercises criminal prosecution and represents the charge in trial on behalf of the state, directs and controls the preliminary investigations and the activity of the judicial police, and performs any investigative action that is deemed necessary, takes measures for the execution of criminal decisions, supervises their execution, and exercises the functions of judicial cooperation with foreign authorities, according to the rules set forth in the Code of Criminal Procedure. According to article 14 of the Military Criminal Code, when a soldier commits a criminal offence not provided for in this Code, he will be responsible under the provisions of the Criminal Code (Civil Code). Thus, when the crime of enforced disappearance is carried out by a military, the ordinary court shall have jurisdiction to adjudicate the offence. The powers of the military court are abolished by law No. 9911, dated 05.05.2008.

45. Concerning the provisions of Articles 12 and 18 of the Convention regarding the right of any person who claims to have been a victim of enforced disappearance to report to the competent authorities, it is hereby noted that the Criminal Procedure Code guarantees the rights of the victim, however such rights should be in compliance with the statute of limitations:

Article 9/a

3. If there is a possibility that the victim is a minor and the age of the victim is unknown, it is presumed that he/she is a minor.

4. The minor victim is questioned without delay by specialized persons for this purpose. Where applicable and appropriate, the conversation shall be recorded by means of audiovisual media, as provided for in this Code.

- (b) The interests of the defendant exceed the victim's interest;
- (c) The victim has not yet been questioned as a witness.

2. The victim, his legal representative or his/her lawyer shall be entitled to seek information regarding the deployment, continuation, replacement or removal of security measures against the defendant, unless notification of these facts may endanger the life or health of the defendant.

46. Article 18 of the Convention pays major importance to the guarantees provided to the person deprived from his freedom, and the obligation of the authority in charge to document his activity regarding the deprivation of the freedom of a person, therefore the Criminal Procedure Code provides for:

Article 34/B
The rights of arrested and detained person

(Added by Law No. 35/2017, dated 30 March 2017)

(d) Immediately obtain the necessary medical care.

2. The proceeding authority shall immediately notify the arrested or detained person arrested for the rights provided for in paragraphs “a”, “b”, “c”, “ç”, “d”, “dh” and “e”1, of Article 34/a of this Code, granting following the signature, the rights card in a written form. The person shall be entitled to hold the rights card.

Functions of the judicial police in cases of arrest or detention (Point “1” amended by law No. 8813, dated 13.6.2002) (Added sentence at point 1 and word at point 4, added point 3 and amended point 2 by law no 35/2017, dated 30.3.2017).

1. Judicial police officers and agents who have made an arrest or detention or have taken over the arrested person shall immediately notify the prosecutor’s office of the place where the arrest or detention was conducted. They inform the arrested or the detainee that he has no obligation to make a statement and if he/she speaks, whatever he/she says can be used against him at trial. Judicial police officers and agents inform the detainees or arrestees of the right that are entitled to be represented by a defense counsel and immediately notify the defence council or, where appropriate, the attorney appointed by the prosecutor. The date, time and name of the judicial police officer who has conducted the arrest or detainment shall be filed in the database record.

2. Judicial police officers and agents shall immediately inform the arrested or detained person for the reasons of arrest or detention and his / her rights under Article 34/b of this Code, unless this is absolutely impossible due to the circumstances.

3. When an arrested person or a detainee is ill or underage, the prosecutor may order that he/she be kept in custody in his or her residence or other guarded place. When the arrested person or the detained person has not been granted a rights card, it is immediately given to the detention center. If the arrested or detained can not read, the rights letter is read by one of the attendees. This fact is filed in the record by signature.

4. The judicial police, with the consent of the arrested or detained person, must promptly notify the family members. When the arrested or the detainee is a minor, it is an obligation to notify the parent or the child caretaker as well in compliance with the rules of the Juvenile Justice Code apply.

47. Also, the rights and treatment of prisoners are regulated in particular in Law No. 8328, dated 16.4.1998, “On the Rights and Treatment of Prisoners and Detainees”, as amended. Law No. 8331/1998 “On the Execution of Penal Decisions”, as amended, foresees the conduct of control by the Prosecutor, inter alia, also through the search of direct information and verifications on documents or in the Institution for the Execution of Criminal Decisions in the presence of the respective official person.

48. Article 74/1 of Law No. 8328, dated 16.04.1998 “On the Rights and Treatment of Prisoners and Detainees” amended, provides that “The National Mechanism for the Prevention of Torture, Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment, which supervises the implementation and enforcement of the law for the protection of human rights” acts as a special structure under the authority of the People’s Advocate who presents recommendations to the relevant bodies in order to improve the conditions and treatment of prisoners.

49. Also with the Decision of the Council of Ministers No. 437 dated 20.05.2015 was approved the new General Regulation of Prisons. This regulation comes in alignment with the developments in the prison system as part of the justice reform and guarantees respect for the rights and fulfilment of the obligations for the treatment of persons with limited freedom. The provision of special rules to ensure that all records of prisoners are kept and administered in accordance with standard procedures and the provision of personal data protection constitute important aspects of the new General Prison Regulation.

50. If domestic legislation provides for the suspension of duty for state officials after having committed or being involved in committing enforced disappearances, the Law “On Prison Police”, Article 42 specifically provides that in cases where a Prison Police officer is under criminal responsibility for a crime, is suspended from the official function until the end of the process. Regarding the question of whether the competent authorities are ex officio investigating cases of enforced disappearance, in compliance with our legislation we can say that the competent authorities ex officio investigate cases of enforced disappearance due to Article 284 of the Criminal Procedure Code which provides that criminal offenses which are prosecuted by appeal, no criminal offense of enforced disappearance is foreseen in the circle of criminal offenses prosecuted, and for this reason, this criminal offense is mainly prosecuted with the prosecutor being informed and the police on their own initiative by reports made by others.

51. As regards Article 10 of the Convention, persons who are foreign nationals who are arrested / detained as suspects or offenders/accomplices for the commission of the offense of “Enforced Disappearance” have been guaranteed and are entitled to the right to have and receive consular assistance. These persons, up to the examination and evaluation of the security measure by the respective court, are held and treated in the premises of the State Police security rooms.

52. In the “Manual of Standard Rules and Procedures for the Treatment and Detention of Arrested/Detained Persons in Police Units”, approved by Order No. 763, dated 27.09.2011 of the General Director of State Police in Chapter III, where the rights and obligations of the arrested/detained are determined, the right of foreign nationals such as: “Foreign nationals have the right to contact with representatives of the Diplomatic Representation of their country and, in their absence, with representatives of that State that has assumed the protection of the rights of the respective state.”.

53. Also in the obligations that the local and central structures of the State Police have to guarantee the rights of the arrested/detained persons, it is stipulated that “... it is the obligation of the State Police to immediately notify the respective Diplomatic Representation in cases of arrests/detentions of foreign nationals”.

54. The Albanian Government in 2016 has undertaken a comprehensive Justice Reform, starting with important amendments to the Constitution (amended by Law No. 76/2016), and continuing with changes throughout the criminal law package. As a result, the position of the Prosecutor of the Albanian Prosecution Office has changed.

55. In this framework, with the entry into force of the new law No. 97/2016 “On the Organization and Functioning of the Prosecutor’s Office in the Republic of Albania”, the prosecutor exercises functions independently, thereby guaranteeing greater effectiveness and impartiality in investigation and decision-making.

56. The Prosecutor’s Office in accordance with the obligations deriving from Articles 12 and 24 of the UN International Convention “On the Protection of All Persons from Enforced Disappearances”, when the omitted evidence creates reasonable doubts that a person has been the victim of an enforced disappearance, has the legal obligation to investigate matters mainly.

57. Regarding the competence of the subject matter of investigation and trial in the Albanian legislation, the only criminal prosecution authority is the Prosecutor’s Office. On the other hand, no other law enforcement authority other than the Prosecutor’s Office, whether military or not, has no power to investigate or adjudicate enforced disappearances. Likewise, there is no case provided by law or by the Constitution that may recognize a given military institution the possibility of obtaining this competence under certain circumstances such as war or state of emergency. We emphasize that the Prosecutor’s Office is also competent to review the criminal offenses provided by the Military Penal Code and committed by the military. Regarding paragraph 125 of the Albanian State Report we clarify that the Albanian state is a party to the Council of Europe's Extradition Convention and the two additional protocols since 1998.

58. The Albanian criminal law permits the extradition of perpetrators of the offense of enforced disappearance based on the two conditions provided by Article 11 of the Criminal Code respectively a) the extradition provision in an international agreement where the Albanian state is a party and b) the criminal offence for which the extradition is conducted, is provided both by Albanian and foreign law. Regarding the legal remedies to immediately initiate investigations for cases of enforced disappearances, we clarify that in principle the Prosecution has the obligation to initiate criminal investigations, even on its own initiative, whenever it receives information about the occurrence of a criminal offense, regardless of type. This obligation of the Prosecution extends equally to the offense of enforced disappearances whether it is foreseen under Article 109/c of the Criminal Code, or when it is provided for in Article 74 of the Criminal Code, as part of a crime against humanity. In the case of Article 74 of the Criminal Code, the Prosecution has the obligation to initiate investigations immediately, even by initiative, as in the case of foreign perpetrators or when they are Albanians, as well as in cases whether the offense has occurred outside the territory of Albania even when it has occurred within inside the territory, as this offense is included in universal jurisdiction, as foreseen in Article 7 of the Criminal Code. Regarding the training of prosecutors, currently the General Prosecutor's Office does not have a specific sector or group of prosecutors with specific training on the investigation and prosecution of enforced disappearances. Under the legislation in force, each district-level prosecutor's office is entitled to complete independence in initiating criminal prosecution, including cases of enforced disappearances. Following the reform of the Prosecutor's Office since August 2017, prosecutors are independent in their decision-making in relation to prosecutors of a higher hierarchical status and in principle are entitled to full competence to initiate investigations even to the respective executives. On their part, the higher-level prosecutors no longer possess the power to order the prosecutor to quit the case nor replace it with another prosecutor. These competences actually belong only to the High Council of Prosecution. Regarding the possibility of conduction an investigation in the places where it is suspected that the missing persons are kept, criminal legislation provides for the possibility of the Judicial Police officers carry out searches in urgent cases, without the need for intervention by a judicial authority.

59. Procedures for urgent searches are filed to the prosecutor for validation within 48 hours. Regarding the suspension from duty of the suspected persons involved in an enforced disappearance, the criminal procedure legislation in Article 240 provides for the suspension from duty as a security measure, under the circumstances when the keeping the suspected person in duty endangers and incentivizes the commitment of similar criminal offences or other serious crimes.

Recommendation IV. Measures to Prevent Enforced Disappearances (Articles 16-23)

60. As regards Article 17 of the Convention, all detained or arrested persons by the judicial police service as suspected or authors/accomplices for the commission of the offense of "enforced disappearance" but also for other offenses committed by Albanian citizens, foreigners or stateless persons, are held and treated in the premises of legally recognized public institutions.

61. Arrested/detained persons, up to the examination and assignment of the security measure by the court organ, are kept in the premises of the security rooms of the Local Police Directorates and Police Commissariats.

62. These premises have been officially presented to the General Prosecutor's Office and Judicial District Prosecutor's Office, the People's Advocate, civil society organizations that protect human rights and in particular to those deprived of their freedom, such as:

- The Albanian Helsinki Committee;
- European Institute of Tirana;

- Albanian Rehabilitation Centre for Trauma and Torture;
- Center for Human Rights in Democracy;
- OSCE, PAMECA mission, ICITAP program;
- Committee for the Prevention of Torture and Inhuman or Degrading Treatment (CPT), etc.

63. After the imposition of the security measure “Arrest in prison” the arrested/detainees are transferred to the Institutions of Criminal Decisions Executions subordinate to the Ministry of Justice. The Constitution of the Republic, the Criminal Procedure Code, the Law “On State Police” have defined and guaranteed the legal rights of persons deprived of their freedom such as:

- Choice of attorney and protection;
- Providing visits / controls and medical assistance;
- Notifying and informing these persons of their rights;
- Notifying and alerting family members, relative or other person chosen by him;
- Notification and informing the diplomatic representation of the state belonging to the arrested/detained citizen and allowing meetings with the latter;
- Submission of requests/complaints from persons deprived of their freedom in the police premises.

64. At the very first moments of deprivation of freedom (arrest/detention), judicial police officers communicate to the person that he/she is entitled to the right to be represented by a lawyer and not to speak without his presence, and if he/she speaks, the statements shall be used against him/her in court, etc. Defense attorneys are provided the conditions to be present during the arrest/detention as well as to meet at any time with their clients in the premises of the security rooms without the presence of other persons.

65. The right to be visited and examined by a doctor is realized and continues to be implemented in practice, where immediately after the arrest or detention, but no later than 12 hours, these persons are subject to medical check-ups and visits of the medical staff of the local police directorates, despite the fact that the person might not suffer from any illness and does not need medical help.

66. Carrying out these medical examinations is recorded in the relevant files. Sanctioning, realization in practice and procedures for guaranteeing and providing medical care are set out in the “Procedures Manual on the Treatment and Security of Arrested/Detained Persons in Police Units”, approved by Order No. 763, dated 27.11.2011, of the General Director of State Police.

67. Domestic Legislation (Law on State Police and Criminal Procedure Code) and the aforementioned Manual have determined that the notification of family or a person selected by the arrested/detainee, who is a minor for the country and the situation in which is involved is compulsory, and for other adult persons, according to their choice. Also, for foreign nationals, the Ministry for Europe and Foreign Affairs and the relevant Diplomatic Representation are immediately informed. The premises of the State Police security rooms have been and remain the subject of inspections/visits of the People’s Advocate, civil society organizations that protect human rights, the Prosecutor’s Office as the investigating authority, as well as many other organizations EC and UN, for the protection of human rights.

68. State Police has enabled local government institutions, NGOs/NPOs and international organizations to carry out continuous visits and inspections, to the premises where these persons are kept and treated, to the treatment provided to them, to the fulfilment of the conditions and to the respect of the rights provided by law.

69. Serving this purpose, several joint-initiative agreements with NGOs/NPOs have been drafted and signed:

- Cooperation Agreement between the State Police and the European Institute of Tirana;

- Cooperation Agreement between the State Police and the Albanian Helsinki Committee;
- Cooperation Agreement between the Albanian Rehabilitation Center for Trauma and Torture;
- Cooperation Agreement between the State Police and the Center for Human Rights in Democracy.

70. State Police, by order No. 158, dated 12.04.2012, "On Reforming the Registries of Data Recording for Escorted Persons, in Police Directorates and Police Commissariats", has produced and put in place special registers for the provision and reporting of data for arrested/detained persons in security rooms.

71. These registers are filed in the police archive/registries, administered by the personnel responsible for handling such persons, and after completion/filling-in, this register is kept in storage according to the rules and procedures for this purpose.

72. Based on the requirements of Article 103 "On the data of escorted, arrested and detained citizens" of the Law "On the State Police", by special order of the General Director of Police was created and put into operation the Electronic Registry (ADAM system). This register is used for data entry for escorted, arrested and detained persons, which has been operating in all local police units since 2010. The information on these persons is filed/recorded and registered, beginning from the moment of deprivation of freedom, the actions carried out in the security rooms, the health service provided, the meetings with the lawyer, the meetings and the visits made by the representative the People's Advocate or NGO/NPO, the security measure assigned by the court and transferring it to the IECD (Institution of Execution of Criminal Decisions).

73. As regards Article 18 of the Convention, the Code of Criminal Procedure as well as the "Manual of Standards Rules and Procedures for the Treatment and Detention of Arrested/Detained Persons in Police Units" have defined and guaranteed the right, that the person shall be informed to the rights entitled at the beginning of the deprivation of freedom.

74. For this purpose, with a special order of the General Director of State Police, a written format for the rights of the arrested/detained persons has been formatted, produced and implemented, which is conceived in the form of a statement, which shall be given to the person at the time of arrest/detention, which, after being informed, it signed in two copies.

75. One copy is kept by the arrested/detained person and the other is administered by the police personnel responsible for the security rooms. Also, family members, relatives or other persons designated by the arrested/detainees are informed about the whereabouts of the person, their state of health, the assistance they have received with a lawyer, and so on.

76. Likewise, the defence lawyer is introduced with all the procedural acts that are administered in the files of criminal proceedings, conducts meetings and talks with the client (the arrested/detained person) at any time and without the presence of other persons. The Penal Code of the Republic of Albania has foreseen, among other things the "torture" as a criminal offense, which is related to the acts and inactions committed by officials and representatives of the law to obtain information and data on various criminal offenses, through the practice of violence, mistreatment and torture. The State Police Institution, through its administrative acts producing and monitoring continuously all State Police Officials, to perform their duty in accordance with the law, not to use physical force outside the foreseen legal conditions and procedures, categorically prohibiting the exercise physical/psychological violence or other physical mistreatment, to persons to obtain data, information and statements relating to the commission or not of various criminal offenses.

77. An important innovation in the reform of the justice system is the introduction into the criminal procedural law of the Victim concept. Thus, with the amendments of the Criminal Procedure Code, the position of the victim is regulated and improved. Article 9/c of the Criminal Code (Amended by Law 35/2017) provides that public institutions should ensure that victims of the offense are treated with respect for their human dignity and protected from re-injury during the exercise of their rights provided by this Code.

78. Further on, Articles 58 and following of the Criminal Procedure Code provide for a number of procedural and substantive rights that can be practiced by the victims of crime. Also, on 01.01.2018, the “Juvenile Justice Code” enters into force, which complements the legal framework in accordance with the UN Conventions and aims to guarantee other international standards and norms aimed, inter alia, protection of juvenile crime victims. Regarding protective measures for witnesses, the special legislation provides for cases and concrete means of protection. In these cases, in principle are included the witnesses of enforced disappearances, because protective measures for witnesses are related to serious criminal offences involving also the enforced disappearances.

79. The General Directorate of Prisons is the institution responsible for organizing, directing and controlling the execution of penal decisions by imprisonment and with an “arrest in prison” security measure throughout the prison system.

80. The Institution takes appropriate measures to respect the rules regarding the organization and functioning of the Institutions of Execution of Criminal Decisions (IECD), in accordance with national and international human rights standards. All data of persons deprived of their freedom are compiled and registered in a regular and up-to-date manner. The Jurisdictional and Record Sector in IECD has the primary responsibility for the regular updating, compilation and storage of prisoner records as well as their registration. Article 11 of the General Regulation of Prisons approved by the Decision of the Council of Ministers No. 437 dated 20.05.2015, stipulates that with the appearance of detainees or the convicted in the institution of execution of criminal decisions, the respective employees verify the identity and accuracy of his documentation. When the identity and documentation is correct, the minutes of the reception of detainees or convicts, accompanying documents and personal belongings are drafted. The record shall indicate the date and time of acceptance. In cases where doubts arise about the identity of detainees or convicted or resulting in discrepancies in the documentation, the judicial police officer and the prosecutor who has ordered the execution of the final criminal decision are immediately notified.

81. The staff in charge of the institution registers the detainees or convicted persons in the basic register. Article 17 of the General Regulation of Prisons provides for the establishment of the Preliminary Register of Detainees and Prisoners, which includes the elements provided for in Article 17, paragraph 3 of the Convention. In each IECD is kept a basic register of detainees and prisoners in which the following data:

- Complete information on the identity of detainees or convicted (name, father, surname, date of birth, birthplace, place of residence, relatives with whom he/she may communicate, etc.);
- Information regarding the criminal offense (the criminal offense committed, punishment sentence, the court that issued the decision, the number and date of the decision, the date of the arrest, the place where the arrest was made, the date and order of the prosecutor for the execution of the decision, later that changes the previous decision or brings consequences to its execution, any amnesty, forgiveness, etc.);
- Date, time of acceptance and release. In case of death detainees or convicted persons shall state in the basic register of detainees or convicted the date, the place and time of death, the cause of death, the copy of the act of death and the person or authority to whom the body is delivered.

82. Pursuant to the General Regulation of Prisons, the following registers are opened: (a) The basic register of convicted; (b) The basic register of detainees; (c) Personal file of the prisoner; (d) psycho-social dossier; (e) Health record; (f) Register of Claims-Complaints; (g) The Register of Disciplinary Measures; (h) Register of pre-release relief; (i) Register of prisoners’ permits; (j) Register of serious events; (k) Register of decrease of sentence; (l) Register of medical visits; (m) 24 hour activity Register; (n) Employment Register.

83. During this period, there have been no cases of non-registration of persons deprived of their freedom in the basic registers of prisoners. Inspections are carried out by the General Directorate for verifying the completion of the legal files of prisoners. Additionally, multidisciplinary staff training including issues of legal enforcement aspects in the IECD is conducted by the prison directorate.

AIFSDD has paid special attention to every case in addressing the files and documentation under review. Likewise, communications with individuals, families of the missing persons have been carried out, such as the activity held at the Tepelena Camp Memorial on 30 August 2017, on the International Day of the Missing Persons. Displacement of the child inside or outside the country is done by the agreement of both parents or, in the event of a dispute between them, by a court decision after the opinion or consent of the child informed of the general social, economic situation and services can be offered in the country of origin. The unaccompanied child of the parent or guardian has the right to return, as soon as possible. Return to the country of origin is only done if it is in the highest interest of the child by assessing the aspects related to the child’s safety, its integration into the place where it will be returned, and its possibilities to preserve the identity, nationality, name and family ties, taking into account the child’s opinion or consent, in accordance with his age and ability to understand. For cases involving unaccompanied children, the diplomatic service of the Republic of Albania abroad informs the ministry responsible for foreign affairs, whereas in cases involving children accompanied only by one parent and without the consent of the other parent, the Ministry of Justice is notified. These bodies take immediate measures to return the child to Albania, according to the rules of law No. 9446, dated 24.11.2005, “On the ratification of the Convention on Civil Aspects of International Child Abduction”. The parent, guardian of the child or any person who knows about the loss of his or her child must notify within 24 hours the responsible state authority to enable the child to return quickly and safely. Enforcement of the child's highest interest is the primary consideration in all decisions and actions taken with regard to the child.

113. On 26.04.2017 with the Decision of the Council of Ministers No. 372 adopted the National Agenda for the Rights of the Child 2017-2020, which aims to achieve the effective protection and promotion of children's rights in the Republic of Albania by applying international and national standards in this field and promoting an integrated approach and inclusive for children's rights. The Agenda represents a multi-disciplinary and systematic framework, which should be integrated into all national, local, child-related documents, plans and other activities, in the spirit of the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child. The agenda is guided by the principle of the highest interest of the child and has as a vision the creation of a favorable environment for the safe and healthy growth of children, the development of the maximum physical and psychosocial potential of children, social inclusion and active participation in all areas that affect their lives, as well as guaranteeing the assessment of the progress of children's rights in key public policy areas related to children. Based on the vision of this agenda, the main strategic goals are formulated with the respective objectives.

114. The strategic pillars of the Agenda are: (i) Good Governance in Promoting, Respecting and Protecting Children's Rights; (ii) Elimination of all forms of violence against children; and (iii). Friendly Systems and Services for Children and Adolescents: Development and Education, Justice, Health and Nutrition, and Social Protection. The approach used as a shaft for the agenda is that of children's rights. This approach regards each child as a unique and equally valuable human being, entitled not only to live and survive but also to develop to the fullest possible potential. Children can express their views by helping anyone to better understand the situation they are in, they can contribute actively to their experience. Children deserve to be fulfilled with higher interest by allocating resources and implementing the foreseen rights. One of the main pillars of this Agenda is the Elimination of All Forms of Violence for Children. This can be ensured through the establishment of an integrated and effective child protection system through a significantly improved legal and institutional framework, as well as addressing various forms of violence against children such as bullying, violence in schools, positive displacement, violence in the family, sexual abuse, economic exploitation and street children, child safety in the digital environment, unaccompanied children or victims of trafficking etc. An important focus is prevention as a key strategy for protecting children from all forms of violence, giving focus to programs aimed at promoting positive non-violent parenting. The main objectives in this chapter are to improve the legal and institutional mechanisms for an integrated and effective child protection system as well as to improve access to child protection services. To achieve these objectives, a number of measures are envisaged, which mainly concern the regulation of the legal framework, the establishment or further development of the capacities of all employees working directly or indirectly with children, through their professional training. Also, measures regarding the monitoring of child labour structures, inspection of the standards of services provided to children, as well as programs for reducing violence, positive involvement, or specialized services for children victims of sexual abuse and forms of child abuse or other serious violent acts.
