

Annex 9 – Paragraph 26

Table 1 - Data regarding complaints of torture and ill-treatment
Year*	About the case	Status	About the inmate
2019	The inmate complained that several of the fellow inmates were sexually abusing her, and that the prison staff has ignored her request for help.	The case was sent to the prison for examination, where it is still pending.	Female Born 1976 Danish citizen
	The inmate complained about long-lasting exclusion from community, which he described as torture.	The case is still pending at the Department of Prisons and Probation.	Male Born 1976 Danish citizen
	A prison guard was reported to the police and provisionally charged with violence against an inmate. The prison guard was relieved of duties while the case was pending. The Danish Prosecution Service dropped the charge against the prison guard due to the weakness of the evidence, when it was assessed that the prison guard would not be found guilty of the charge.	The prison guard resumed service, and the case was closed without a disciplinary penalty.	Male Born 1995 Iranian citizen
	A prison guard was formally charged with violence against an inmate and suspended in relation to the indictment. The prison guard was later found not guilty in court.	The prison guard resumed service, and the case was closed without a disciplinary penalty.	Male Born 1989 Iraqi citizen
	A prison guard was formally charged with violence against an inmate and suspended in relation to the indictment. The prison guard was later found not guilty in court.	The case is not closed, but is being examined at the Department of Prisons and Probation.	Male Born 1997 Danish citizen
2018	The inmate complained about degrading treatment in relation to attachment of handcuffs.	The case is still pending at the Department of Prisons and Probation.	Male Born 1952 Danish citizen
	The inmate complained that the staff had used unnecessary violence against him in relation to a transfer to an observation cell.	The inmate withdrew his complaint after he was released.	Male Born 1996 Danish citizen
	A prison guard was reported to the police and provisionally charged with violence against an inmate. The prison guard was relieved of duties while the case was pending. The Danish Prosecution Service dropped the charge against the prison guard due to the weakness of the evidence, when it was assessed that the prison guard would not be found guilty of the charge.	The prison guard resumed service, and the case was closed without a disciplinary penalty.	Male Born 1998 Stateless
	Three prison guards were reported to the police and provisionally charged with violence against an inmate. The Danish Prosecution Service decided to drop the charges against two of the prison guards, while the third prison guard was formally charged with violence and consequently was suspended. The prison guard was later in court found not guilty of violence. The judgment was not appealed.	The prison guard resumed service, and the case was closed without a disciplinary penalty.	Male Born 1960 American citizen
	A manager was sentenced to unconditional imprisonment for 60 days for violence against an inmate. The manager was suspended while the case was pending.	The manager resigned with shortened notice, and the case was closed.	Male Born 1962 Iraqi citizen
2017	The inmate's lawyer complained that the staff had treated his client in a degrading way by using unnecessary violence in relation to a search.	The Department of Prisons and Probation found no basis for criticizing the staff's use of force.	Male Born 1960 Moroccan citizen

	The inmate's lawyer complained that the inmate was being searched daily, which he found was a degrading treatment, especially because the search was carried out with the inmate in degrading positions.	The case is pending at court.	Male Born 1991 Tunisian citizen
	A prison guard was reported to the police and provisionally charged with violence against an inmate. The prison guard was relieved of duties while the case was pending. The Danish Prosecution Service dropped the charge against the prison guard due to the weakness of the evidence.	The prison guard resumed service, and the case was closed without a disciplinary penalty.	Male Born 1985 Romanian citizen
	Three prison guards were reported to the police and provisionally charged with violence against an inmate. The Danish Prosecution Service dropped the charges against the prison guards due to the weakness of the evidence.	The prison guards resumed service, and the case was closed without disciplinary penalties.	Male Born 1982 Egyptian citizen
	A prison guard was reported to the police for violence against an inmate. The inmate had broken an arm during a use of force. The police did not find basis to initiate investigation, when on the present basis there was not a reasonable presumption that the prison guard had committed a criminal offence.	The case was closed without a disciplinary penalty.	Male Born 1994 Danish citizen
	A prison guard was reported to the police for violence and indecent exposure against an inmate. The police stopped the investigation because there was not a reasonable presumption that a criminal offence had been committed.	The case was closed without a disciplinary penalty.	Female Born 1987 Romanian citizen
	A prison guard was formally charged with violence against an inmate and suspended in relation to the indictment. The prison guard was later in court found not guilty of violence. The judgment was not appealed.	The prison guard resumed service, and the case was closed without a disciplinary penalty.	Male Born 1993 Danish citizen
	A prison guard had applied a non-proportional use of force against an inmate.	The prison guard received a enjoining in writing.	Female Born 1974 Iranian citizen
2016	The inmate complained that searches and urine samples are carried out by male staff even though the inmate has had a legal change of sex made and legally is a woman.	The case is pending at court.	Male Born 1961 Danish citizen
	The inmate's lawyer complained that the inmate was searched daily, which he found was a degrading treatment.	The Department of Prisons and Probation did not find basis for criticizing the daily searches that was carried out for safety reasons.	Male Born 1995 Danish citizen
2015	The inmate complained about inhuman treatment because he was moved around between different cells and prisons many times during a short period of time.	The Department of Prisons and Probation asked the prison to answer the complaint. The prison answered the inmate that the many relocations had been necessary due to bedbugs in several of the cells where the inmate had stayed.	Male Born 1952 Danish citizen

*In the column 'Year' is stated the year the specific case was settled. If the case is still pending, it is registered under the year it was started.

Table 2 - Cases involving reports of torture and ill-treatment 2016-2019

Place of detention	Gender	Age	Nationality
Klemensker	Male	16	Danish
Herning	Female	23	Danish
Aarhus	Male	42	Danish
Albertslund	Male	41	Danish
Copenhagen	Male	38	Romanian
Odense	Male	60	Danish