Birth Certificate Procedure

Within one year from the date of birth, the township medical officer issues a birth certificate to every child born in hospitals, station hospitals, rural health centers, sub-centers and homes, upon application. Such certificates can be filed with authorities present in villages or wards, where the child is born.

Children born to Muslim families residing in remote areas are enlisted in the household list if they are not willing to apply for birth certificate in towns. The purpose of enlisting new-born babies in the household list is to ensure that their birth is properly registered.
